Are you the curious type?

Have you ever wondered.....

Where your great-grandparents were married?

When and where and if they arrived on a ship from the Azores?

In 1840, who was living in your family's home?

Is my Chinese family from Kohala mentioned in any books?

Did you know you can begin your own genealogy history search with only a Hawai`i Public Library card?

Helen Wong Smith, Librarian and Certified Archivist, will guide you to numerous sources of information on immigrants, marriages, births, deaths, census data and land transfers pertaining to families in the Hawaiian Islands.

The sugar plantations initiated the waves of immigration from Europe and Asia and other points of the globe. Helen will share the sources of public information to authenticate the family stories about your ancestors. Hawai`i residents are fortunate that the State Departments of Health, Public Library System, Archives and others have carefully safeguarded and archived many records that are available online or by request, at little or no cost.

Join us and be inspired to start your own genealogical research journey!
